

Interpersonal Communication Styles in the Workplace

Lunch-and-Learn Series

Featuring Marilouise Carlisle, M.A.

Why do some people communicate better than others? Effective communication requires self-awareness and a realistic understanding of how people perceive you.

UCI faculty and staff are invited to join us for this Lunch-and-Learn seminar featuring Marilouise Carlisle who will focus on passive, aggressive, and assertive communications styles. Learn how to be a more effective communicator and how to feel more comfortable in a variety of workplace situations.

Carlisle is an expert in the field of organizational communication and specializes in interpersonal and written communication skills. She has taught conflict resolution, business communications, and writing at UC Irvine Extension for over 15 years. She is a consultant for private and public organizations, and is a member of the American Society of Training and Development and of the American Society of Business Communicators.

Thursday, February 12, 2015, 11:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

MPAA (attached to Social Sciences Parking Structure), Room 100

Advance tickets only. A&PW Members $6 (Non-members $8). Space is limited. E-mail kloto@uci.edu to reserve your seat today.

apw.uci.edu

University of California, Irvine